

61st London International Youth Science Forum (LIYSF) 24th July – 7th August 2019

Applications invited for students that are passionate about science, aged 16-21 years old to apply now to join our 2019 edition.

- Two week residential event based at Imperial College London with lecture demonstrations from leading scientists
- 500 science students, representing over 70 countries, come together to learn, exchange views and share knowledge at this exciting and dynamic event
- Visits to world class UK university laboratories and departments, industrial sites, research centres and scientific institutions
- Students able to tailor their programme to meet their STEM interests
- Active social calendar with events designed to enable participants to gain unique cultural interaction and networking
- Participation fee of £1,995 includes; 14 nights accommodation in South Kensington, all meals, plenary lectures and specialist lectures, demonstrations, scientific visits across the UK, transport during LIYSF and social programme